

This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

- + Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.
- + Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.
- + Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.
- + Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

And thereupon they awarded to Nevins & Myers the contract for printing of Bills, Reports, Laws, and Executive jobs; to Elifritz & Winters for printing Journals; and to G. J. Brand & Co. the contract for German printing, at their respective bids therefor, they being the lowest and best bids therefor respectively.

STATUTES.

There are on hand seventy copies of Vol. I, and seventy-nine copies of Vol. II. of Swan & Critchfield's Revised Statutes, four hundred and ten copies of Swan & Sayler's Supplement to the Revised Statutes, and two hundred and thirty five copies of Curwen's Statutes. Of Gholson & Okey's Digest there are two hundred and sixty-four. All of Swan & Critchfield's Statutes, and one hundred and fifty-one of Swan & Sayler's Supplement, included in the above, have been delivered to the General Assembly for the use of the members thereof, and are still in their possession.

PAPER FOR THE STATE.

On the 4th day of September, after giving notice as required by statute, I awarded contracts for paper for the current year, as follows:

To the Cleveland Paper Company, of Cleveland, for two thousand reams of double super-royal printing paper, at 9 47-100 cents per pound; for two hundred reams of double flat-cap for printing bills, at 17 60-100 cents per pound; fifty reams brochure cover paper, at 13 98-100 cents per pound; for seventy-five reams flat-cap paper, at 18 80-100 cents per pound; for fifty reams flat letter paper, at 18 98-100 cents per pound; and eighty reams folio-pest paper, at 18 90-100 cents per pound.

To Harding Paper Company, of Middletown, Ohio, for twenty-five reams of demy paper, at 19 20-100 cents per pound.

SUPREME COURT REPORTS.

In pursuance of joint resolution "To provide for the publication of the Ohio State Reports, and the advance sheets of the same," adopted April 6, 1876, I, on the 17th day of May, 1876, contracted with Robert Clarke & Co., of Cincinnati, to furnish material, print, bind, and supply the State with three hundred and fifty copies of the twenty-seventh and all other volumes of the Ohio State Reports that may be ready for publication within two years from the 23d day of June, A.D. 1876, at $2.50 per volume. The decisions of the Supreme Court and Supreme Court Commission are published in separate volumes. The twenty-sixth and twenty-seventh volumes are well advanced, and probably one of them will be delivered before the first of January. It is probable that during the current year at least two volumes more (twenty-eighth and twenty-ninth) will be published, and for which an appropriation of $875 per volume will be required.

There are now in my possession, of the Reports, the following numbers:

| Volume | | Ohio Reports. | Ohio State Reports. |
|--------|-------|---------------|---------------------|
| 1 | | 293 | 347 |
| " | 2 | 296 | 324 |

| " | 22 | ... | 191 |
| " | 23 | ... | 194 |
| " | 24 | ... | 193 |
| " | 25 | ... | 194 |

Former reports from this department have contained complete lists of State officers, members of the Constitutional Conventions, members of Congress, and members of the General Assembly from the organization of the State, and I deemed a sketch of the Territorial history important to complete the political history of the State, and to that end requested my friend, Hon. Isaac Smucker, of Newark, Ohio, to prepare such an article, which he very kindly has done, and the same appears in this volume under the title "A Brief History of the Territory North-west of the River Ohio."

In this connection, and as a connecting link between the Territorial and State governments, I also insert the proceedings of the first Constitutional Convention. The proceedings of this Convention are now very scarce; indeed, I know of but one official copy in existence, and that is very difficult of access.

A BRIEF HISTORY OF THE TERRITORY NORTH-WEST OF THE RIVER OHIO.

HON. WILLIAM BELL, JR., Secretary of State:

DEAR SIR: In pursuance of your request, and in compliance with my promise, I herewith submit for publication in your annual report for the current year a brief history of the "Territory North-west of the River Ohio." The space to which I have properly, as I think, limited myself will admit of little more than stating the time, manner, and conditions of the deed of cession of the territory by Virginia to the United States; to giving the act of Congress of July 13, 1787, commonly called "the Ordinance of '87," which authorized and provided for the organization of the Territory; to making brief mention of the treaties with the Indians, by which their titles were extinguished; to giving the names and time of service of the Territorial officers; the time when each county was proclaimed by the Governor, and the county seat of each; and also the names of the members of the Territorial Council, as well as of the Territorial House of Representatives, with the counties they respectively represented. This, and but little else in addition than the presentation of the more salient points of our Territorial history will be attempted, and such facts given in regard to Connecticut's deed of cession, and to our land grants and surveys as entered conspicuously into, and made part of our territorial history.

THE TITLE OF VIRGINIA, AND HER DEED OF CESSION.

Virginia acquired title to the great North-west by its several charters, granted by James I., bearing dates respectively April 10, 1606; May 23, 1609; March 12, 1611. The Colony of Virginia first attempted to exercise authority in, or jurisdiction over, that portion of its extensive domains that was organized by the Ordinance of '87 into "the Territory North-west of the River Ohio," when, in 1769, the House of Burgesses of said Colony passed an act establishing the county of Botetourt, with the Mississippi River as its western boundary. The aforesaid act recited that, "Whereas, the people situated on the Mississippi, in the said county of Botetourt, will be very remote from the court-house, and must necessarily become a separate county, as soon as their numbers are sufficient, which, probably, will happen in a short time, be it therefore enacted, by the authority aforesaid, that the inhabitants of that part of the said county of Botetourt which lies on the said waters shall be exempted from the payment of any levies to be laid by the said county court for the purpose of building a court-house and prison for the said county."

Civil government, however, between the Ohio and Mississippi rivers, was more in name than reality, until in 1778, after the conquest of the country by General George Rogers Clark, when the Virginia Legislature organized the county of Illinois, embracing within its limits all the territory owned by Virginia west of the Ohio River. Colonel John Todd served under appointment received from the Governor of Virginia, as civil commandant, and lieutenant of the county, until his death, at the battle of Blue Licks, in 1782, less than two years before Virginia ceded the country to the United States. Timothy de Montbrun was his successor.

In 1783 "the General Assembly of Virginia passed an act authorizing the Virginia delegates in Congress to convey to the United States all the right of that Commonwealth to the territory north-westward of the river Ohio."

Pursuant to the foregoing action of the General Assembly of Virginia, Thomas Jefferson, Samuel Hardy, Arthur Lee, and James Monroe, Virginia's delegates in Congress, did, as per deed of cession, on the first day of March, 1784, it being the eighth year of American Independence, "convey (in the name and for, and on behalf of, the said Commonwealth). transfer, assign, and make over unto the United States in Congress assembled, for the benefit of said States, Virginia inclusive, all right, title, and claim, as well of soil as of jurisdiction, to the territory of said State, lying and being to the north-west of the river Ohio." Upon the presentation of said deed of cession, Congress resolved, on the same day, "that it be accepted, and the same be recorded and enrolled among the acts of the United States in Congress assembled."

The United States having thus secured title to the "Great North-west," Congress soon deemed it advisable to take the preliminary steps looking to the permanent establishment of civil government in the new and extensive territory of which that body had just become the legal custodian. Accordingly, after much mature deliberation and careful consideration of the subject, as well as prolonged discussion of the important questions involved, they, on the 13th of July, 1787, gave to the world the results of their deliberations in "An ordinance for the government of the Territory of the United States North-west of the river Ohio," which has come to be best known as "The Ordinance of '87," sometimes also called "The Ordinance of Freedom." As said ordinance was the fundamental law, the Constitution, so to speak, of the great North-west, upon which were based, and with which harmonized, all our territorial enactments, as well as all our subsequent State legislation, and, moreover, as it is to that wise, statesman-like document that we are indebted for much of our prosperity and greatness, I give it entire, as follows :

ORDINANCE OF 1787.

Be it ordained by the United States in Congress Assembled, That the said territory, for the purpose of temporary government, be one district, subject, however, to be divided into two districts, as future circumstances may, in the opinion of congress, make it expedient.

Be it ordained by the authority aforesaid, That the estates both of resident and non-resident proprietors in the said territory, dying intestate, shall descend to and be distributed among their children, and the descendants of a deceased child, in equal parts; the descendants of a deceased child or grand-child to take the share of their deceased parent in equal parts among them; and where there shall be no children or descendants, then in equal parts to the next of kin, in equal degree; and among collaterals, the children of a deceased brother or sister of the intestate shall have, in equal parts among them, their deceased parents' share; and there shall, in no case, be a distinction between kindred of the whole and half blood; saving in all cases to the widow of the intestate her third part of the real estate for life, and one-third part of the personal estate; and this law, relative to descents and dower, shall remain in full force until altered by the legislature of the district. And until the governor and judges shall adopt laws, as hereinafter mentioned, estates in the said territory may be devised or bequeathed by wills, in writing, signed and sealed by him or her, in whom the estate may be (being of full age), and attested by three witnesses; and real estate may be conveyed by lease and release, or bargain and sale, signed, sealed, and delivered by the person, being of full age, in whom the estate may be, and attested by two witnesses, provided such wills be duly proved, and such conveyances be acknowledged, or the execution thereof duly proved, and be recorded within one year after proper magistrates, courts, and registers shall be appointed for that purpose; and personal property may be transferred by delivery; saving, however, to the French and Canadian inhabitants, and other settlers of the Kaskaskies, St. Vincents, and the neighboring villages, who have heretofore professed themselves citizens of Virginia, their laws and customs now in force among them, relative to the descent and conveyance of property.

Be it ordained by the authority aforesaid, That there shall be appointed, from time to time, by congress, a governor, whose commission shall continue in force for the term of three years, unless sooner revoked by congress; he shall reside in the district, and have a freehold estate therein, in one thousand acres of land, while in the exercise of his office.

There shall be appointed, from time to time, by congress, a secretary, whose commission shall continue in force for four years, unless sooner revoked; he shall reside in the district, and have a freehold estate therein, in five hundred acres of land, while in the exercise of his office; it shall be his duty to keep and preserve the acts and laws passed by the legislature, and the public records of the district, and the proceedings of the governor in his executive department; and transmit authentic copies of such acts and proceedings, every six months, to the secretary of congress. There shall also be appointed a court, to consist of three judges, any two of whom to form a court, who shall have a common law jurisdiction, and reside in the district, and have each therein a freehold estate, in five hundred acres of land, while in the exercise of their offices; and their commissions shall continue in force during good behavior.

The governor and judges, or a majority of them, shall adopt and publish in the district such laws of the original states, criminal and civil, as may be necessary and best suited to the circumstances, and report them to congress, from time to time; which laws shall be in force in the district until the organization of the general assembly therein, unless disapproved of by congress; but afterwards the legislature shall have authority to alter them as they shall think fit.

The governor, for the time being, shall be commander-in-chief of the militia, appoint and commission all officers in the same, below the rank of general officers; all general officers shall be appointed and commissioned by congress.

Previous to the organization of the general assembly, the governor shall appoint such magistrates and other civil officers, in each county or township, as he shall find necessary for the preservation of the peace and good order in the same. After the general assembly shall be organized, the powers and duties of magistrates and other civil officers shall be regulated and defined by the said assembly; but all magistrates and other civil officers, not herein otherwise directed, shall, during the continuance of this temporary government, be appointed by the governor.

For the prevention of crimes and injuries, the laws to be adopted or made shall have force in all parts of the district, and for the execution of process, criminal and civil, the governor shall make proper divisions thereof; and he shall proceed, from time to time, as circumstances may require, to lay out the parts of the district, in which the Indian titles shall have been extinguished, into counties and townships, subject, however, to such alterations as may thereafter be made by the legislature.

So soon as there shall be five thousand free male inhabitants, of full age, in the district, upon giving proof thereof to the governor, they shall receive authority, with time and place, to elect representatives from their counties or townships, to represent them in the general assembly: provided, that for every five hundred free male inhabitants there shall be one representative, and so on, progressively, with the number of free male inhabitants, shall the right of representation increase, until the number of representatives shall amount to twenty-five; after which the number and proportion of representatives shall be regulated by the legislature: provided, that no person be eligible or qualified to act as a representative unless he shall have been a citizen of one of the United States three years, and be a resident in the district, or unless he shall have resided in the district three years; and, in either case, shall likewise hold in his own right, in fee simple, two hundred acres of land within the same: provided, also, that a freehold in fifty acres of land in the district, having been a citizen of one of the states, and being resident in the district, or the like freehold and two years' residence in the district, shall be necessary to qualify a man as an elector of a representative.

The representatives thus elected shall serve for the term of two years; and, in case of the death of a representative, or removal from office, the governor shall issue a writ to the county or township for which he was a member to elect another in his stead, to serve for the residue of the term.

The general assembly, or legislature, shall consist of the governor, legislative council, and a house of representatives. The legislative council shall consist of five members, to continue in office five years, unless sooner removed by congress, any three of whom to be a quorum; and the members of the council shall be nominated and appointed in the following manner, to wit: As soon as representatives shall be elected the governor shall appoint a time and place for them to meet together, and, when met, they shall nominate ten persons, residents in the district, and each possessed of a freehold in five hundred acres of land, and return their names to congress, five of whom congress shall appoint and commission to serve as aforesaid: and whenever a vacancy shall happen in the council, by death or removal from office, the house of representatives shall nominate two persons, qualified as aforesaid, for each vacancy, and return their names to congress, one of whom congress shall appoint and commission for the residue of the term. And every five years, four months at least before the expiration of the time of service of the members of council, the said house shall nominate ten persons, qualified as aforesaid, and return their names to congress, five of whom congress shall appoint and commission to serve as members of the council five years, unless sooner removed. And the governor, legislative council, and house of representatives shall have authority to make laws, in all cases, for the good government of the district, not repugnant to the principles and articles in this ordinance established and declared. And all bills, having passed by a majority in the house, and by a majority in the council, shall be referred to the governor for his assent; but no bill or legislative act whatever shall be of any force without his assent. The governor shall have power to convene, prorogue, and dissolve the general assembly when, in his opinion, it shall be expedient.

The governor, judges, legislative council, secretary, and such other officers as congress shall appoint in the district; shall take an oath or affirmation of fidelity, and of office; the governor before the president of congress, and all other officers before the governor. As soon as a legislature shall be formed in the district, the council and house assembled, in one room, shall have authority, by joint ballot, to elect a delegate to congress, who shall have a seat in congress, with a right of debating, but not of voting, during this temporary government.

And for extending the fundamental principles of civil and religious liberty, which form the basis whereon these republics, their laws, and constitutions are erected; to fix and establish those principles as the basis of all laws, constitutions, and governments, which forever hereafter shall be formed in the said territory; to provide, also, for the establishment of states, and permanent government therein, and for their admission to a share in the federal councils on an equal footing with the original states, at as early periods as may be consistent with general interest,

It is hereby ordained and declared by the authority aforesaid. That the following articles shall be considered as articles of compact between the original states and the people and states in the said territory, and forever remain unalterable, unless by common consent, to wit:

ARTICLE 1. No person, demeaning himself in a peaceable and orderly manner, shall ever be molested on account of his mode of worship or religious sentiments in the said territory.

ART. 2. The inhabitants of the said territory shall always be entitled to the benefits of the writ of habeas corpus and of trial by jury; of a proportionate representation of the people in the legislature, and of judicial proceedings according to the course of the common law. All persons shall be bailable, unless for capital offenses, where the proof shall be evident, or the presumption great. All fines shall be moderate, and no cruel or unusual punishments shall be inflicted. No man shall be deprived of his liberty or property but by the judgment of his peers, or the law of the land; and, should the public exigencies make it necessary, for the common preservation, to take any person's property, or to demand his particular services, full compensation shall be made for the same. And, in the just preservation of rights and property, it is understood and declared that no law ought ever to be made, or have force in the said territory, that shall, in any manner whatever, interfere with or affect private contracts or engagements, bona fide, and without fraud, previously formed.

ART. 3. Religion, morality, and knowledge being necessary to good government and the happiness of mankind, schools and the means of education shall forever be encouraged. The utmost good faith shall always be observed towards the Indians; their lands and property shall never be taken from them without their consent; and in their property, rights, and liberty, they shall never be invaded or disturbed, unless in just and lawful wars authorized by congress; but laws founded in justice and humanity shall, from time to time, be made for preventing wrongs being done to them, and for preserving peace and friendship with them.

ART. 4. The said territory, and the states which may be formed therein, shall forever remain a part of this confederacy of the United States of America, subject to the articles of confederation, and to such alterations therein as shall be constitutionally made, and to all the acts and ordinances of the United States in congress assembled, conformable thereto. The inhabitants and settlers in the said territory shall be subject to pay a part of the federal debts, contracted or to be contracted, and a proportional part of the expenses of government, to be apportioned on them by congress, according to the same common rule and measure by which apportionments thereof shall be made on the other states; and the taxes for paying their proportion shall be laid and levied by the authority and direction of the legislatures of the district or districts, or new states, as in the original states, within the time agreed upon by the United States in congress assembled. The legislatures of those districts, or new states, shall never interfere with the primary disposal of the soil by the United States in congress assembled, nor with any regulations congress may find necessary for securing the title in such soil to the bona fide purchasers. No tax shall be imposed on lands the property of the United States; and in no case shall non-resident proprietors be taxed higher than residents. The navigable waters leading into the Mississippi and St. Lawrence, and the carrying places between the same, shall be common highways, and forever free, as well to the inhabitants of the said territory as to the citizens of the United States, and those of any other states that may be admitted into the confederacy, without any tax, impost, or duty therefor.

ART. 5. There shall be formed in the said territory not less than three nor more than five states; and the boundaries of the states, as soon as Virginia shall alter her act of cession, and consent to the same, shall become fixed and established as follows, to wit: The western state in the said territory shall be bounded by the Mississippi, the Ohio, and Wabash rivers; a direct line drawn from the Wabash and Port Vincents due north to the territorial line between the United States and Canada; and by the said territorial line to the Lake of the Woods and Mississippi. The middle state shall be bounded by the said direct line, the Wabash from Port Vincents to the Ohio, by the Ohio, by a direct line drawn due north from the mouth of the Great Miami to the said territorial line, and by the said territorial line. The eastern state shall be bounded by the last-mentioned direct line, the Ohio, Pennsylvania, and the said territorial line: provided, however, and it is further understood and declared, that the boundaries of these three states shall be subject so far to be altered that, if congress shall hereafter find it expedient, they shall have authority to form one or two states in that part of the territory which lies north of an east and west line drawn through the southerly bend or extreme of Lake Michigan. And whenever any of the said states shall have sixty thousand free inhabitants therein, such state shall be admitted, by its delegates, into the congress of the United States, on an equal footing with the original states in all respects whatever, and shall be at liberty to form a permanent constitution and state government: provided, the constitution and government so to be formed shall be republican, and in conformity to the principles contained in these articles; and, so far as it can be consistent with the general interest of the confederacy, such admission shall be allowed at an earlier period, and when there may be a less number of free inhabitants in the state than sixty thousand.

ART. 6. There shall be neither slavery nor involuntary servitude in the said territory otherwise than in the punishment of crimes, whereof the party shall have been duly convicted: provided, always, that any person escaping into the same from whom labor or service is lawfully claimed in any one of the original states, such fugitive may be lawfully reclaimed, and conveyed to the person claiming his or her labor or service as aforesaid.

PROBABLE NUMBER AND CHARACTERISTICS OF THE POPULATION IN 1787.

Up to the time of the passage of the above ordinance there had been no permanent settlements by white men established upon territory embraced within the boundaries given to the North-west Territory, except the few French villages and their immediate vicinities, in the western and north-western portions of it. If any such existed within the present limits of Ohio, they must have been situated along the Maumee River, and were of small extent. The Government had hitherto, for the sake of peace, discouraged, and by military force prevented, all attempts of white settlers to occupy lands belonging to the Indians. The chief of those French villages were Detroit, on the Detroit River; St. Vincents, on the Wabash; Cahokia, five miles below St. Louis; St. Philip, forty-eight miles below St. Louis, on the Mississippi; Kaskaskia, on Kaskaskia River, six miles above its mouth, which empties into the Mississippi seventy-five miles below St. Louis; Prairie-du-Rocher, near Fort Chartres; and Fort Chartres, fifteen miles north-west from Kaskaskia. These were all small settlements or villages, whose aggregate inhabitants probably did not exceed three thousand.

The inhabitants of these remote settlements in the wilderness and on the prairies, says a late writer, "were of a peculiar character. Their intercourse with the Indians, and their seclusion from the world, developed among them peculiar characteristics. They assimilated themselves with the Indians, adopted their habits, and almost uniformly lived in harmony with them. They were illiterate, careless, contented, but without much industry, energy, or foresight. Some were hunters, trappers, and anglers, while others run birch-bark canoes by way of carrying on a small internal trade, and still others cultivated the soil. The traders, or voyageurs, were men fond of adventure, and of a wild, unrestrained, Indian sort of life, and would ascend many of the long rivers of the West almost to their sources in their birch-bark canoes, and load them with furs bought of the Indians. The canoes were light, and could easily be carried across the portages between streams."

There was attached to these French villages a "common field," for the free use of the villagers, every family, in proportion to the number of its members, being entitled to share in it. It was a large inclosed tract for farming purposes. There was also at each village a "common," or large inclosed tract, for pasturage and fuel purposes, and timber for building. If a head of a family was sick, or by any casualty was unable to labor, his portion of the "common field" was cultivated by his neighbors, and the crop gathered for the use of his family. "The French villagers," says the author of Western Annals, "were devout Catholics, who, under the guidance of their priests, attended punctually upon all the holidays and festivals, and performed faithfully all the outward duties and ceremonies of the church. Aside from this, their religion was blended with their social feelings. Sunday, after mass, was the especial occasion for their games and assemblies. The dance was the popular amusement with them, and all classes, ages, sexes, and conditions, united by a common love of enjoyment, met together to participate in the exciting pleasure. They were indifferent about the acquisition of property for themselves or their children. Living in a fruitful country, which, moreover, abounded in fish and game, and where the necessities of life could be procured with little labor, they were content to live in unambitious peace and comfortable poverty. Their agriculture was rude, their houses were humble, and they cultivated grain, also fruits and flowers; but they lived on from generation to generation without much change or improvement. In some instances they intermarried with the surrounding Indian tribes."

Most of these far-off western villages were protected by military posts, and some of them (notably Detroit, which for months had successfully resisted, in 1763, when in possession of the English, the attacks of the great Pontiac) had realized something of the "pride, pomp, and circumstance of glorious war." The morning guns of these forts had sounded the merry reveille upon the early breeze, waking the slumbering echoes of the forests, daily, for a century or more; the boom of their loud mid-day cannon across the broad prairies, and its reverberations from the cliffs beyond, had been heard for generations; and their evening bugle had wailed plaintively its long-drawn, melancholy notes along the shores of the "Father of Waters"—the mighty river of the West—for more than a hundred years before the adoption of "freedom's ordinance."

ORGANIZATION OF THE OHIO LAND COMPANY.

While Congress had under consideration the measure for the organization of a Territorial government north-west of the Ohio River, the preliminary steps were taken in Massachusetts towards the formation of the Ohio

Land Company, for the purpose of making a purchase of a large tract of land in said Territory, and settling upon it. Upon the passage of the ordinance by Congress, the aforesaid land company perfected its organization, and by its agents, Rev. Manasseh Cutler and Major Winthrop Sargent, made application to the Board of Treasury July 27, 1787, to become purchasers, said Board having been authorized four days before to make sales. The purchase, which was perfected October 27, 1787, embraced a tract of land containing about a million and a half of acres, situated within the present counties of Washington, Athens, Meigs, and Gallia, subject to the reservation of two townships of land six miles square, for the endowment of a college, since known as Ohio University, at Athens; also every sixteenth section, set apart for the use of schools, as well as every twenty-ninth section, dedicated to the support of religious institutions; also sections eight, eleven, and twenty-six, which were reserved for the United States, for future sale. After these deductions were made, and that for donation lands, there remained only nine hundred and sixty-four thousand two hundred and eighty-five acres to be paid for by the Ohio Land Company, and for which patents were issued.

At a meeting of the directors of the company, held November 23, 1787, General Rufus Putnam was chosen superintendent of the company, and he accepted the position. Early in December six boat-builders and a number of other mechanics were sent forward to Simrall's Ferry (now West Newton), on the Youghiogheny River, under the command of Major Haffield White, where they arrived in January, and at once proceeded to build a boat for the use of the company. Colonel Ebenezer Sproat, of Rhode Island, Anselm Tupper and John Matthews, of Massachusetts, and Colonel Return J. Meigs, of Connecticut, were appointed surveyors. Preliminary steps were also taken at this meeting to secure a teacher and chaplain, which resulted in the appointment of Rev. Daniel Story, who some time during the next year arrived at the mouth of the Muskingum, in the capacity of the first missionary and teacher from New England.

Early in the winter the remainder of the pioneers, with the surveyors, left their New England homes and started on their toilsome journey to the western wilderness. They passed on over the Alleghanies, and reached the Youghiogheny about the middle of February, where they rejoined their companions who had preceded them.

The boat, called the "Mayflower," that was to transport the pioneers to their destination was forty-five feet long, twelve feet wide, and of fifty tons burden, and was placed under the command of Captain Devol. "Her bows were raking, or curved like a galley, and strongly timbered; her sides were made bullet-proof, and she was covered with a deck roof," so as to afford better protection against the hostile savages while floating down towards their western home, and during its occupancy there before the completion of their cabins. All things being ready, they embarked at Simrall's Ferry April 2, 1788, and passed down the Youghiogheny into the Monongahela, and thence into the Ohio, and down said river to the mouth of the Muskingum, where they arrived April 7, and then and there made the first permanent settlement of civilized men within the present limits of Ohio. These bold adventurers were reënforced by another company from Massachusetts, who, after a nine weeks' journey, arrived early in July, 1788.

Many of these Yankee colonists had been officers and soldiers in the Revolutionary army, and were, for the most part, men of intelligence and character, and of sound judgment and ability. In short, they were just the kind of men to found a State in the wilderness. They possessed great energy of character, were enterprising, fond of adventure and daring, and were not to be intimidated by the formidable forests nor by the ferocious beasts sheltered therein, nor by the still more to be dreaded savages, who stealthily and with murderous intent roamed throughout their length and breadth. Their army experience had taught them what hardships and privations were, and they were quite willing to encounter them. A better set of men could not have been selected for pioneer settlers than were these New England colonists—those brave-hearted, courageous hero-emigrants to the great North-west, who, having triumphantly passed the fiery ordeal of the Revolution, volunteered to found a State and to establish American laws, American institutions, and American civilization in this the wilderness of the uncivilized West. If any State in our American Union ever had a better start in its incipient settlement than Ohio, I am not aware of it. General Washington, writing of these bold pioneers, said that “no colony in America was ever settled under such favorable auspices as that which has just commenced at the Muskingum. Information, property, and strength will be its characteristics. I know many of the settlers personally, and there never were men better calculated to promote the welfare of such a community.” Having had a personal army acquaintance with Generals Putnam and Parsons, and with Colonel Return Jonathan Meigs, and probably with many other leading members of this pioneer colony, his favorable opinion of them is entitled to great weight.

THE FIRST SETTLEMENT UNDER THE ORDINANCE OF 1787.

Of course no time was lost by the colonists in erecting their habitations, as well as in building a stockade fort, and in clearing land for the production of vegetables and grain for their subsistence, fifty acres of corn having been planted the first year. Their settlement was established upon the point of land between the Ohio and Muskingum rivers, just opposite and across the Muskingum from Fort Harmar, built in 1786, and at this time garrisoned by a small military force under command of Major Doughty. At a meeting held on the banks of the Muskingum July 2, 1788, it was voted that Marietta should be the name of their town, it being thus named in honor of Marie Antoinette, Queen of France.

SURVEYS AND GRANTS OF THE PUBLIC LANDS.

The first survey of the public lands north-west of the Ohio river was the seven ranges of Congress lands, and was done pursuant to an act of Congress of May 20, 1785. This tract of the seven ranges is bounded by a line of forty-two miles in length, running due west from the point where the western boundary line of Pennsylvania crosses the Ohio River; thence due south to the Ohio River, at the south-east corner of Marietta township, in Washington county; thence up said river to the place of beginning. The present counties of Jefferson, Columbiana, Carroll, Tuscarawas, Harrison, Guernsey, Belmont, Noble, Monroe, and Washington are, in whole or in part, within the seven ranges.

The second survey was that of the Ohio Company's purchase, made in pursuance of an act of Congress of July 23, 1785, though the contract was not completed with the Ohio Company until October 27, 1787. Mention of its extent, also the conditions, reservations, and circumstances attending the purchase, have already been given. One hundred thousand acres of this tract, called donation lands, were reserved upon certain conditions as a free gift to actual settlers. Portions of the counties of Washington, Athens, and Gallia are within this tract, also the entire county of Meigs. The donation lands were in Washington county.

The next survey was the "Symmes purchase" and contiguous lands, situated to the north and west of it, and was made soon after the foregoing. The "Symmes purchase" embraced the entire Ohio River front between the Big Miami and Little Miami Rivers, a distance of twenty-seven miles, and reaching northwards a sufficient distance to include an area of one million of acres. The contract with Judge Symmes, made in October, 1787, was subsequently modified by act of Congress bearing date of May 5, 1792, and by an authorized act of the President of the United States of September 30, 1794, so as to amount to only 311,682 acres, exclusive of a reservation of fifteen acres around Fort Washington, of a square mile at the mouth of the Great Miami, of sections 16 and 29 in each township, the former of which Congress had reserved for educational and the latter for religious purposes, exclusive also of a township dedicated to the interests of a college; and sections 8, 11, and 26 which Congress reserved for future sale.

The tract of land situated between the Little Miami and Scioto rivers, known as the Virginia military lands, was never regularly surveyed into townships, but patents were issued by the President of the United States to such persons (Virginians) as had rendered service on the continental establishment in the army of the United States (hence the name), and in the quantities to which they were entitled, according to the provisions of an act of Congress of August 10, 1790. "It embraces a body of 6,570 square miles, or 4,204,800 acres of land. The following counties are situated in this tract, namely: Adams, Brown, Clermont, Clinton, Fayette, Highland, Madison, and Union entirely; and greater or less portions of the following, to wit: Marion, Delaware, Franklin, Pickaway, Ross, Pike, Scioto, Warren, Greene, Clarke, Champaign, Logan, and Hardin."

Connecticut ceded all lands in the North-west to which she claimed title to the United States (except the tract which has been known as the "Western Reserve"), by deed of cession bearing date of September 14, 1786; and in May, 1800, by act of the Legislature of said State, renounced all jurisdictional claim to the "territory called the Western Reserve of Connecticut." That tract of land was surveyed in 1796, and later into townships of five miles square, and in the aggregate contained about 3,800,000 acres, being one hundred and twenty miles long, and lying west of the Pennsylvania State line, all situated between forty-one degrees of north latitude and forty-two degrees and two minutes. Half a million of acres of the foregoing lands were set apart by the State of Connecticut in 1792 as a donation to the sufferers by fire (during the revolutionary war) of the residents of Greenwich, New London, Norwalk, Fairfield, Danbury, New Haven, and other Connecticut villages whose property was burned by the British; hence the name "Firelands" by which this tract taken from the western portion of the Reserve has been known. It is situated chiefly in Huron and Erie counties, a small portion only being in Ottawa county. The entire Western Reserve embraces the present counties of Ashtabula, Cuyahoga, Erie, Geauga, Huron, Lake, Lorain, Madina, Portage, and Trumbull; also the greater portion of Mahoning and Summit, and very limited portions of Ashland and Ottawa.

French grant is a tract of 24,000 acres of land bordering on the Ohio River, within the present limits of Scioto county, granted by Congress in March, 1795, to certain French settlers of Gallipolis, who, through invalid titles, had lost their lands there. Twelve hundred acres were added to this grant in 1798, making a total of 25,200 acres.

The United States military lands were surveyed under the provisions of an act of Congress of June 1, 1796, and contained 2,560,000 acres. This tract was set apart to satisfy certain claims of the officers and soldiers of the Revolutionary war, hence the title by which it is known. It is bounded by the seven ranges on the east, by the Greenville treaty line on the north, by the Congress and refugee lands on the south, and by the Scioto River on the west, including the county of Coshocton entire, and portions of the counties of Tuscarawas, Guernsey, Muskingum, Licking, Franklin, Delaware, Marion, Morrow, Knox, and Holmes.

The Moravian lands are three several tracts of 4,000 acres each, situated, respectively, at Shoenbrun, Gnadenhutten, and Salem, all on the Tuscarawas River, now in Tuscarawas county. These lands were originally dedicated by an ordinance of Congress dated September 3, 1788, to the use of the Christianized Indians at those points, and by act of Congress of June 1, 1796, were surveyed and patents issued to the Society of the United Brethren, for the purposes above specified.

The refugee tract is a body of land containing 100,000 acres, granted by Congress February 18, 1801, to persons who fled from the British provinces during the Revolutionary war and took up arms against the mother country and in behalf of the Colonies, and thereby lost their property by confiscation. This tract is four and one-half miles wide, and extends forty-eight miles eastward from the Scioto River at Columbus into Muskingum county. It includes portions of the counties of Franklin, Fairfield, Perry, Licking, and Muskingum.

Dohrman's grant is a township of land six miles square, containing 23,040 acres, situated in the south-eastern part of Tuscarawas county. It was given to Arnold Henry Dohrman, a Portuguese merchant of Lisbon, by act of Congress of February 27, 1801, "in consideration of his having, during the Revolutionary war, given shelter and aid to the American cruisers and vessels of war."

The foregoing is a list of the principal land grants and surveys during our Territorial history, in that portion of the North-west that now constitutes the State of Ohio. There were canal land grants, Maumee Road grants, and various others, but they belong to our State, and not to our Territorial history.

TREATIES MADE WITH THE INDIANS.

By the terms of the treaty of Fort Stanwix, concluded with the Iroquois or Six Nations (Mohawks, Onondagas, Senecas, Cayugas, Tuscaroras, and Oneidas), October 22, 1784, the indefinite claim of said confederacy to the greater part of the valley of the Ohio was extinguished. The commissioners of Congress were Oliver Wolcott, Richard Butler, and Arthur Lee. Cornplanter and Red Jacket represented the Indians.

This was followed in January, 1785, by the treaty of Fort McIntosh, by which the Delawares, Wyandots, Ottawas, and Chippewas relinquished all claim to the Ohio valley, and established the boundary line between them and the United States to be the Cuyahoga River, and along the main branch of the Tuscarawas to the forks of said river near Fort Laurens, thence westwardly to the portage between the head waters of the Great Miami and the Maumee or Miami of the Lakes, thence down said river to Lake Erie, and along said lake to the mouth of the Cuyahoga River. This treaty was negotiated by George Rogers Clark, Richard Butler, and Arthur Lee for the United States, and by the chiefs of the aforementioned tribes.

A similar relinquishment was effected by the treaty of Fort Finney (at the mouth of the Great Miami), concluded with the Shawnees January 31, 1786, the United States commissioners being the same as the foregoing, except the substitution of Samuel H. Parsons for Arthur Lee.

The treaty of Fort Harmar, held by General St. Clair January 9, 1789, was mainly confirmatory of the treaties previously made. So also was the treaty of Greenville, of August 3, 1795, made by General Wayne on the part of the United States, and the chiefs of eleven of the most powerful tribes of the north-western Indians, which reestablished the Indian boundary line through the present State of Ohio, and extended it from Loramie to Fort Recovery, and from thence to the mouth of the Ohio River, opposite the mouth of the Kentucky River.

The rights and titles acquired by the Indian tribes under the foregoing treaties were extinguished by the General Government, by purchase, in pursuance of treaties subsequently made. The Western Reserve tract west of the Cuyahoga River was secured by a treaty formed at Fort Industry in 1805. The lands west of Richland and Huron counties and north of the boundary line to the western limits of Ohio were purchased by the United States in 1818. The last possession of the Delawares was purchased in 1829; and by a treaty made at Upper Sandusky, March 17, 1842, by Colonel John Johnston and the Wyandot chiefs, that last remnant of the Indian tribes in Ohio sold the last acre they owned within the limits of our State to the General Government, and retired, the next year, to the Far West, settling at and near the mouth of Kansas River.

FIRST OFFICERS OF THE TERRITORY.

Congress, in October, 1787, appointed General Arthur St. Clair Governor, Major Winthrop Sargent Secretary, and James M. Varnum, Samuel

H. Parsons, and John Armstrong Judges of the Territory, the latter of whom, however, having declined the appointment, John Cleves Symmes was appointed in his stead in February, 1788. On the 9th of July, 1788, Governor St. Clair arrived at Marietta, and finding the Secretary and a majority of the Judges present, proceeded to organize the Territory. The Governor and Judges (or a majority of them) were the sole legislative power during the existence of the first grade of Territorial government. Such laws as were in force in any of the States, and were deemed applicable to the condition of the people of the Territory, could be adopted by the Governor and Judges, and, after publication, became operative, unless disapproved of by Congress, to which body certified copies of all laws thus adopted had to be forwarded by the Secretary of the Territory.

The further duty of the Judges, who were appointed to serve during good behavior, was to hold court four times a year, whenever the business of the Territory required it, but not more than once a year in any one county.

THE SECOND GRADE OF TERRITORIAL GOVERNMENT.

After it shall have been ascertained that five thousand free male inhabitants actually resided within the Territory, the second grade of Territorial government could, of right, be established, which provided for a Legislative Council, and also an elective House of Representatives, the two composing the law-making power of the Territory, provided always that the Governor's assent to their acts was had. He possessed the absolute veto power, and no act of the two houses of the Legislature, even if passed by a unanimous vote in each branch, could become a law without his consent. The conditions that authorized the second grade of Territorial government, however, did not exist until 1798, and it was not really put into operation until September, 1799, after the first grade of government had existed for eleven years.

EARLY LAWS OF THE TERRITORY.

The first law was proclaimed July 25, 1788, and was entitled "An act for regulating and establishing the militia." Two days thereafter the Governor issued a proclamation establishing the county of Washington, which included all of the territory east of the Scioto River to which the Indian title had been extinguished, reaching northward to Lake Erie, the Ohio River and the Pennsylvania line being its eastern boundary; Marietta, the seat of the Territorial government, also becoming the county seat of Washington county.

Quite a number of laws were necessarily adopted and published during 1788 and the following year. From 1790 to 1795 they published sixty-four, thirty-four of them having been adopted at Cincinnati during the months of June, July, and August of the last named year, by the Governor and Judges Symmes and Turner. They are known as the "Maxwell Code," from the name of the publisher, and were intended, says the author of "Western Annals," "to form a pretty complete body of statutory provisions." In 1798 eleven more were adopted. It was the published opinion of the late Chief Justice Chase, "that it may be doubted whether any colony, at so early a period after its first establishment, ever had so good a code of laws." Among them was that "which provided that the common law of England, and all statutes in aid thereof, made previous to the fourth year of James I., should be in full force within the Territory." Probably four-fifths of the laws adopted were selected from those in force in Pennsylvania; the others were mainly taken from the statutes of Virginia and Massachusetts.

LOCAL COURTS AND COURT OFFICERS.

Among the earliest laws adopted was one which provided for the institution of a county court of common pleas, to be composed of not less than three nor more than five Judges, commissioned by the Governor, who were to hold two sessions in each year. Pursuant to its provisions, the first session of said court was held in and for Washington county, September 2, 1788. The Judges of the court were Gen. Rufus Putnam, Gen. Benjamin Tupper, and Col. Archibald Crary. Col. Return Jonathan Meigs was Clerk, and Col. Ebenezer Sproat was Sheriff. Elaborate details of the opening of this, the first court held in the North-west Territory, have come down to us, showing it to have been a stylish, dignified proceeding. Briefly, "a procession was formed at the Point (the junction of the Muskingum with the Ohio River) of the inhabitants and the officers from Fort Harmar, who escorted the Judge of the court, the Governor of the Territory, and the Territorial Judges to the hall appropriated for that purpose, in the north-west block-house in "Campus Martins." "The procession," says Mitchener, "was headed by the Sheriff, with drawn sword and baton of office." "After prayer by Rev. Manasseh Cutler, the court was organized by reading the commissions of the Judges, Clerk, and Sheriff; after which the Sheriff proclaimed that the court was open for the administration of even-handed justice to the poor and the rich, to the guilty and the innocent, without respect of persons; none to be punished without a trial by their peers, and then in pursuance of the laws and evidence in the case."

On the 23d day of August, 1788, a law was promulgated for establishing "general courts of quarter sessions of the peace." This court was composed of not less than three nor more than five Justices of the Peace, appointed by the Governor, who were to hold four sessions in each year. The first session of this court was held at "Campus Martins" September 9, 1788. The commission appointing the Judges thereof was read. Gen. Rufus Putnam and Gen. Benjamin Tupper, says Mitchener, constituted the Justices of the quorum, and Isaac Pearce, Thomas Lord, and Return Jonathan Meigs, Jr., the assistant Justices; Col. Return Jonathan Meigs, Sr., was Clerk. Col. Ebenezer Sproat was Sheriff of Washington county fourteen years. The first grand jury of the North-west Territory was impaneled by this court, and consisted of the following gentlemen: William Stacey (foreman), Nathaniel Cushing, Nathan Goodale, Charles Knowles, Anselm Tupper, Jonathan Stone, Oliver Rice, Ezra Lunt, John Matthews, George Ingersoll, Jonathan Devol, Jethro Putnam, Samuel Stebbins, and Jabez True.

ORGANIZATION OF COUNTIES.

Washington county, embracing the eastern half of the present State of Ohio, was the only organized county of the North-west Territory until early in 1790, when the Governor proclaimed Hamilton county, which included all the territory between the Big and Little Miami rivers, and extending north to the "Standing Stone Forks" on the first named stream.

The following is a list of all the Territorial counties organized; also the date of organization, with their respective county seats:

| Counties. | When proclaimed. | County seats. |
|---------------------|-------------------------|------------------|
| 1. Washington | July 27, 1788 | Marietta. |
| 2. Hamilton | January 2, 1790 | Cincinnati. |
| 3. St. Clair | February, 1790 | Cahokia. |
| 4. Knox | In 1790 | Vincennes. |
| 5. Randolph | In 1795 | Kaskaskia. |
| 6. Wayne | August 15, 1795 | Detroit. |
| 7. Adams | July 10, 1797 | Manchester. |
| 8. Jefferson | July 29, 1797 | Steubenville. |
| 9. Ross | August 20, 1797 | Chillicothe. |
| 10. Trumbull | July 10, 1800 | Warren. |
| 11. Clermont | December 6, 1800 | Williamsburg. |
| 12. Fairfield | December 9, 1800 | New Lancaster. |
| 13. Belmont | September 7, 1801 | St. Clairsville. |

It will be observed that Hamilton was the second county organized. There were situated within its limits, when organized, several flourishing villages, that had had their origin during the closing months of 1788 and early in 1789. Columbia, situated at the mouth of the Little Miami, was the first of these laid out, its early settlers being Colonel Benjamin Stites, of "Redstone Old Fort" (proprietor); William Goforth, John S. Gano, John Smith (a Baptist minister, who afterward became one of Ohio's first United States Senators), and others, numbering in all twenty-five persons or more, though some of them arrived a little later.

Cincinnati was the next in order of time, having been laid out early in 1789, by Colonel Robert Patterson, Matthias Denman, and Israel Ludlow. Several not very successful attempts had also been made at various points between Cincinnati and the mouth of the Great Miami by Judge Symmes.

The early settlers of Hamilton county were principally from New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Virginia, and Kentucky. Judges Symmes and Burnet were representative men in the Miami Valley from New Jersey; Jeremiah Morrow and Judge Dunlavy from Pennsylvania; Wm. H. Harrison and Wm. McMillan from Virginia; and Colonel Robert Patterson and Rev. James Kemper from Kentucky.

The Scioto Valley, the next in order of time, was settled chiefly by Virginians and Kentuckians, represented by Colonel Thomas Worthington and General Nathaniel Massie, two of its prominent settlers.

And the early settlements along Lake Erie, during the closing years of the eighteenth century, whose representative men were Governor Samuel Huntington and Hon. Benjamin Tappan, were established by men not a whit inferior to those above named. And the good that General Washington said of the New England Colony that settled Marietta could, with very slight modification, be said of most of the settlers and pioneers of the aforesaid settlements.

EARLY TERRITORIAL VILLAGES AND TOWNS.

The following is a list of the principal villages and towns of the Northwest Territory, started and built up during Territorial rule, with the time of the first survey of lots, together with the names of their proprietors:

Marietta—laid out in 1788 by Rufus Putnam and the Ohio Land Company.

Columbia—laid out in 1788 by Benjamin Stites, Major Gano, and others.

Cincinnati—laid out in 1789 by Robert Patterson, Matthias Denman, and Israel Ludlow.

Gallipolis—laid out in 1791 by the French settlers.

Manchester—laid out in 1791 by Nathaniel Massie.

Hamilton—laid out in 1794 by Israel Ludlow.

Dayton—laid out in 1795 by Israel Ludlow, and Generals Dayton and Wilkinson.

Franklin—laid out in 1795 by William C. Schenck and Daniel C. Cooper.

Chillicothe—laid out in 1796 by Nathaniel Massie.

Cleveland—laid out in 1796 by Job V. Styles.

Franklinton—laid out in 1797 by Lucas Sullivant.

Steubenville—laid out in 1798 by Bazalel Wells and James Ross.

Williamsburg—laid out in 1799.

Zanesville—laid out in 1799 by Jonathan Zane and John McIntire.

New Lancaster—laid out in 1800 by Ebenezer Zane.

Warren—laid out in 1801 by Ephraim Quinby.

St. Clairsville—laid out in 1801 by David Newell.

Springfield—laid out in 1801 by James Demint.

Newark—laid out in 1802 by Wm C. Schenck, G. W. Burnet, and John N. Cummings.

Cincinnati at the close of the Territorial government was the largest town in the Territory, containing about one thousand inhabitants. It was incorporated in 1802, with the following as its first officers:

President—David Zeigler.

Recorder—Jacob Burnet.

Trustees—Wm. Ramsay, David E. Wade, Charles Avery, Wm. Stanley, John Reily, Samuel Dick, Wm. Ruffner.

Assessor—Joseph Prince.

Collector—Abram Cary.

Town Marshal—James Smith.

TERRITORIAL OFFICERS.

The following exhibit gives a full list of the officers of the Territory, with the date of service, including the delegates in Congress:

Governor—General Arthur St. Clair, served from 1788 to 1802.

Secretaries—Winthrop Sargent, served from 1788 to 1798; William H. Harrison, served from 1798 to 1799; Charles Willing Byrd, served from 1799 to 1803.

The latter gentleman was also acting Governor during the closing months of the Territorial government, Governor St. Clair having been removed from office, in 1802, by President Jefferson.

Treasurer—John Armstrong, served from 1792 to 1803.

Territorial Delegates in Congress—William H. Harrison, served from 1799, to 1800; William McMillan, served from 1800 to 1801; Paul Fearing, served from 1801 to 1803.

Territorial Judges.—James Mitchell Varnum, Samuel Holden Parsons, and John Armstrong were appointed Judges for the North-west Territory, by Congress, in October, 1787; the latter, however, declined, and John Cleves Symmes was appointed to the vacancy in February, 1788, and he accepted.

Judge Varnum died in January, 1789, and William Barton was appointed his successor, but declined the appointment; George Turner, however, in 1789, accepted it. On the 10th of November, 1789, Judge Parsons was drowned in attempting to cross Big Beaver Creek, and Rufus Putnam became his successor, March 31, 1790. In 1796 he resigned, and Joseph Gilman succeeded him. The Territorial court was composed of three judges, two of whom constituted a quorum for judicial purposes, and also for the exercise of legislative functions, in coöperation with the Governor.

| Names. | When appointed. | End of service. |
|-------------------------|----------------------|--------------------|
| James M. Varnum | October, 1787 | January, 1789. |
| Samuel H. Parsons | October, 1787 | November 10, 1789. |
| John Armstrong | October, 1787 | Refused to serve. |
| John C. Symmes | February, 1788 | |
| William Barton | _____, 1789 | Refused to serve. |
| George Turner | _____, 1789 | |
| Rufus Putnam | March 31, 1790 | Served until 1796. |
| Joseph Gilman | _____, 1796 | |

Return Jonathan Meigs, Jr., was appointed (says Judge Burnet) after the first session of the Territorial Legislature, of which he was a member, and probably continued in office to the close of the Territorial government, but I have not been able to verify said conjecture.

HOSTILITY OF THE INDIAN TRIBES—MILITARY EXHIBITIONS.

From the time of the organization of the government of the "North-west Territory," in 1788, until the ratification of the "treaty of Greenville," sometimes called "Wayne's treaty," in 1795, the attitude of many of the western Indian tribes towards the white settlers in the North-west Territory was that of extreme, unrelenting hostility. The military organizations which had marched against them, before the establishment of civil government in the great North-west, had signally failed to subjugate them, or secure a permanent cessation of hostilities. The disastrous expedition of General Braddock in 1755, of Major Wilkins in 1763, of Colonel Bradstreet in 1764, of Colonel Laughrey in 1781, and of Colonel Crawford in 1782, and the disgraceful and murderous expedition against the Moravian Indians on the Tuscarawas, in the last named year, only tended to inflame the hostile Indian tribes, and inspire them with greater courage in their hostile movements and aggressive measures against the white settlers. The fruitless, if not abortive, campaigns of Colonel McDonald in 1764, of General McIntosh in 1778, and of General Broadhead in 1781, of course, led to no salutary results. Even the successful campaigns of Colonel Bouquet in 1763-4, of Lord Dunmore and General Lewis in 1774, and of General George Rogers Clark in 1778, failed to secure a permanent peace with the western Indian tribes. The inhabitants of the North-west Territory were, therefore, from the 7th of April, 1788, when the first immigrants arrived at the mouth of the Muskingum, until the treaty of Greenville was concluded in August, 1795, constantly liable to the stealthy but deadly attacks of the perfidious, merciless savage tribes of the North-west. But they met their dastardly, cruel, relentless foes in the spirit of genuine manhood—of true, determined, unflinching heroism! They were men worthy of the heroic age of the West! Bravely did they bear themselves during those seven years of toil and privation, of dread and apprehension, of suffering and sorrow, of blood and carnage!

To secure the speedy termination of those savage atrocities the National Government early organized a number of military expeditions, the first of which being that of General Harmar, in 1790, who was then commander-in-chief of the military department of the West. He had a few hundred regular troops under his command, stationed chiefly at Fort Harmar and at Fort Washington, which served as the nucleus of his army. The great body of his troops, however, numbering in all above fourteen hundred, were Pennsylvania and Kentucky volunteers, the former being under the immediate command of Colonel John Hardin, and the latter of Colonel Trotter. The expedition left Fort Washington and marched to the junction of the St. Joseph and St. Mary's rivers (now Fort Wayne, Indiana), where detachments of the army, under command of Colonel Hardin, on the 19th and 22nd days of October, encountered the enemy and suffered mortifying defeats. Of course the campaign failed to give peace or relief from apprehended barbarities.

The next year General St. Clair, the Governor of the Territory, who had a Revolutionary record of patriotism and ability, organized an expedition, whose strength somewhat exceeded that of General Harmar's. It met with most disastrous defeat, November 4th, 1791, near the headwaters of the Wabash, now in Mercer county, Ohio, the battle-field being now known as Fort Recovery. Of fifteen hundred men in the battle more than half of them were either killed or wounded, and it was indeed a great calamity to the disheartened and greatly harassed pioneers of the North-west Territory.

Immediately after the defeat of General St. Clair the Federal Government took the preliminary steps to raise a large army to operate against the hostile tribes, for the purpose of finally and permanently subjugating them. Military preparations, however, progressed slowly, and the summer of 1794 had nearly passed before the confederated hostile Indian tribes were met in battle array by General Wayne's army. The battle was fought at the Maumee Rapids, near Perrysburg and Fort Meigs, in Wood county, Ohio, and is known as the battle of "Fallen Timbers," though sometimes called the "Battle of the Maumee." Wayne's army numbered more than three thousand men, well disciplined, and ably officered, sixteen hundred of whom being mounted volunteer troops from Kentucky, commanded by General Charles Scott, of said State, who was the second ranking officer in the army, and who, as well as General Henry Lee (the "Light Horse Harry" of the Revolution) and General William Darke, had been favorably considered by President Washington in connection with the chief command of the expedition. The choice, however, fell upon General Wayne, the old companion in arms of the President, and to him is justly ascribed the honor of defeating the Indian tribes commanded by the celebrated Shawnee chief, Blue Jacket, on the Maumee, August 20, 1794, and of permanently breaking the power of a very formidable Indian confederacy. Cessation of hostilities followed this victory, and a peace, which the General Government had vainly sought by friendly negotiation, was secured—a peace which continued for many years, even until after the North-west Territory had "ceased to be," and the important incidents and events connected therewith had passed into history.

ORGANIZATION OF THE SECOND GRADE OF TERRITORIAL GOVERNMENT.

The Governor having satisfactorily ascertained that the conditions existed entitling the Territory to the second grade of government, that is, that there were "five thousand free male inhabitant, of full age." within the Territory, he, on the 29th day of October, 1798, took the preliminary steps to effect that object, by issuing his proclamation, directing the qualified voters to hold elections for Territorial Representatives on the third Monday of December, 1798. The election was held in pursuance of said proclamation, which resulted in the following gentlemen being chosen to constitute the popular branch of the Territorial Legislature for the ensuing two years:

MEMBERS OF TERRITORIAL LEGISLATURE OF 1799-1800.

| Isaac Martin, " " | Elias Langham, " " |
| Shadrack Bond, St. Clair " | Samuel Findlay, " " |
| John Small, Knox " | Edward Tiffin, " " |

The above named gentlemen met at Cincinnati on the 22d of January, 1799, and nominated ten men, whose names they forwarded to the United States Congress, five of whom were to be selected by that body to constitute the Legislative Council of the Territory. They then adjourned to meet on the 16th of September, 1799.

On the 22d of March, 1799, either the United States Senate, the United States House of Representatives, or the President of the United States (authorities are not agreed), chose from among those whose names had been suggested to them the following gentlemen, to compose the first Legislative Council of the North-west Territory, their term of office to continue five years, any three of whom to form a quorum :

Jacob Burnet, of Cincinnati, Hamilton county.
 Henry Vandenburg, of Vincennes, Knox county.
 Robert Oliver, of Marietta, Washington county.
 James Findlay, of Cincinnati, Hamilton county.
 David Vance, of Vancleville, Jefferson county.

The ordinance of 1787 named Congress as the authority in whom was vested the right to select five from the list of ten persons to constitute the Territorial Council. But it will be borne in mind that said ordinance was passed by a Congress that legislated in pursuance of the Articles of Confederation, while yet we had neither President nor United States Senate, hence authority was given to Congress to make the selection. But it is highly probable that the aforesaid authority was subsequently transferred to the President, or to the Senate, or to them jointly.

FIRST COUNCIL AND HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

Both the Council and House of Representatives met at Cincinnati September 16, 1799, and effected a permanent organization. The Council perfected its organization by the election of the following officers :

President—Henry Vandenburg.
Secretary—William C. Schenck.
Door-keeper—George Howard.
Sergeant-at-Arms—Abraham Cary.

The House of Representatives completed its organization by electing, as its officers, the following gentlemen :

Speaker of the House—Edward Tiffin.
Clerk—John Reily.
Door-keeper—Joshua Rowland.
Sergeant-at-Arms—Abraham Cary.

Thirty bills were passed at the first session of the Territorial Legislature, but the Governor vetoed eleven of them. They also elected William H. Harrison, then Secretary of the Territory, a delegate to Congress, by a vote of 11 to 10 that were cast for Arthur St. Clair, Jr., son of the Governor, then a promising young lawyer of Cincinnati, and who then held the office of Attorney-General of the Territory. The first session of the Territorial Legislature was prorogued by the Governor December 19, 1799, until the first Monday of November, 1800, at which time they reassembled and held the second session at Chillicothe, which, by an act of Congress of May 7, 1800, was made the seat of the Territorial Government until otherwise ordered by the Legislature. This, the second session of the Territorial Legislature, was of short duration, continuing only until December 9, 1800.

On May 7, 1800, Congress passed an act establishing the Indiana Territory, with boundaries including the present States of Indiana and Illinois, and William H. Harrison, having accepted the office of Governor of said Territory, it devolved upon the Territorial Legislature, at its second session, not only to elect a delegate to fill the vacancy occasioned by his resignation, but also to elect a delegate to serve during the succeeding Congress. William McMillan, of Cincinnati, was elected to fill the vacancy, and Paul Fearing, of Marietta, was elected to serve from the 4th of March, 1801, to the 4th of March, 1803. They were both reputed to be men of ability.

By the organization of the Indiana Territory, the counties of St. Clair, Knox, and Randolph were taken out of the jurisdiction of the North-west Territory, and with them, of course, Henry Vandenburg, of Knox county, President of the Council; also, Shadrack Bond, of St. Clair county; John Small, of Knox county, and John Edgar, of Randolph county, members of the popular branch of the Legislature.

On the 23d of November, 1801, the third session of the Territorial Legislature was commenced at Chillicothe, pursuant to adjournment. The time for which the members of the House of Representatives were elected, having expired, and an election having been held, quite a number of new members appeared. The Council remained nearly as it was at the previous sessions, there being not more than two changes, perhaps only one, that of Solomon Sibley, of Detroit, Wayne county, who took the place of Henry Vandenburg, thrown into the new Territory. Robert Oliver, of Marietta, Washington county, was chosen President of the Council in place of Henry Vandenburg.

The House of Representatives at the third session of the Territorial Legislature was composed of the following gentlemen :

Ephraim Cutler, of Washington county.
 William Rufus Putnam, " "
 Moses Miller, of Hamilton county.
 Francis Dunlavy, " "
 Jeremiah Morrow, " "
 John Ludlow, " "
 John Smith, " "
 Jacob White, " "
 Daniel Reeder, " "
 Joseph Darlington, of Adams county.
 Nathaniel Massie, " "

Zenas Kimberly, of Jefferson county.
 John Milligan, " "
 Thomas McCune, " "
 Edward Tiffin, of Ross county.
 Elias Langham, " "
 Thomas Worthington, of Ross county.
 François Jounce Chabert, of Wayne county.
 George McDougal, of Wayne county.
 Jonathan Schieffelin, " "
 Edward Paine, of Trumbull county.

The officers of the House during its third session were as follows:

Speaker of the House—Edward Tiffin.

Clerk—John Reily.

Door-keeper—Edward Sherlock.

The third session of the Legislature continued from the 24th of November, 1801, until the 23d of January, 1802, when it adjourned to meet at Cincinnati on the fourth Monday of November following, but that fourth session was never held, for reasons made obvious by subsequent events.

Congress, on the 30th of April, 1802, had passed an "act to enable the people of the eastern division of the Territory northwest of the river Ohio, to form a constitution and State government, and for the admission of such state into the Union on an equal footing with the original States, and for other purposes." In pursuance of the aforesaid enactment, an election had been ordered and held throughout the eastern portion of the Territory, and members of a Constitutional Convention chosen, who met at Chillicothe, on the first day of November, 1802, to perform the duty assigned them. When the time had arrived for commencing the fourth session of the Territorial Legislature, the aforesaid Constitutional Convention was in session, and had evidently nearly completed its labors, as it adjourned on the 29th of said month. The members of the Legislature (eight of whom being also members of the Convention), therefore, seeing that a speedy termination of the Territorial government was inevitable, deemed it inexpedient and unnecessary to hold the proposed session.

The Territorial government was ended by the organization of the State government, March 3, 1803, pursuant to the provisions of a constitution formed at Chillicothe, November 29, 1802, by the following named gentlemen: Joseph Darlington, Israel Donalson, and Thomas Kirker, of Adams county; James Caldwell and Elijah Woods, of Belmont county; Philip Gatch and James Sargent, of Clermont county; Henry Abrams and Emanuel Carpenter, of Fairfield county; John W. Browne, Charles Willing Byrd, Francis Dunlavy, William Goforth, John Kitchell, Jeremiah Morrow, John Paul, John Reily, John Smith, and John Wilson, of Hamilton county; Rudolph Bair, George Humphrey, John Milligan, Nathan Updegraff, and Bazaleel Wells, of Jefferson county; Michael Baldwin, Edward Tiffin, James Grubb, Thomas Worthington, and Nathaniel Massie, of Ross county; David Abbot and Samuel Huntington, of Trumbull county; Ephraim Cutler, Benjamin Ives Gilman, Rufus Putnam, and John McIntire, of Washington county.

Joseph Darlington, of Adams county; Francis Dunlavy, Jeremiah Morrow, and John Smith, of Hamilton county; John Milligan, of Jefferson county; Edward Tiffin and Thomas Worthington, of Ross county; and Ephraim Cutler, of Washington county, were the eight gentlemen of the last Territorial Legislature that were also elected members of the Constitutional Convention.

I close this paper with my acknowledgments to Robert Clarke, Esq., of Cincinnati, of whom I obtained many of the foregoing historical facts. I am also debtor for courtesies received at the State Library, while looking through it for important information. In the published letters of the late Judge Burnet (who was from first to last a leading member of the Territorial Council), are also found many of the above related facts. And it may not be inappropriate to say that I have found quite useful in preparing this sketch much of the information obtained personally (during the protracted and interesting interview of a long winter evening nearly forty years ago), from the same distinguished gentleman, who had a remarkably full and accurate knowledge of our Territorial history, and of the men of note who figured during that era. "Howe's Ohio," and other works were also consulted. It will be seen that I have used inverted commas freely.

Very respectfully yours,

ISAAC SMUCKER.

Northwest Territory, U.S.

FIRST CONSTITUTIONAL CONVENTION.

JOURNAL OF THE CONVENTION

Begun and held at the town of Chillicothe, in the county of Ross, and Territory aforesaid, on the first Monday in November (being the first day thereof, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and two, and of the Independence of the United States of America the twenty-seventh.

On which day, being the time and place appointed for the meeting of the Convention for the purpose of forming a Constitution and State Government, by the act of Congress entitled "An act to enable the people of the eastern division of the territory north-west of the river Ohio to form a Constitution and State Government, and for the admission of such State into the Union on an equal footing with the original States, and for other purposes," the following members appeared, who produced certificates of of their having been duly chosen to serve in the Convention, and having severally taken the oath of fidelity to the United States, and also an oath faithfully to discharge the duties of their office, took their seats, to wit:

From the County of Adams—Joseph Darlington, Thomas Kirker and Israel Donalson.

From the County of Belmont—James Caldwell.

From the County of Hamilton—Francis Dunlavy, John Paul, Jeremiah Morrow, John Wilson, Charles Willing Byrd, William Goforth, John Smith and John Reilly.

From the County of Jefferson—Rudolph Bair, John Milligan and George Humphrey.

From the County of Ross—Edward Tiffin, Nathaniel Massie, Thomas Worthington, Michael Baldwin and James Grubb.

From the County of Trumbull—Samuel Huntington.

On motion, the Convention proceeded to the choice of a President pro tempore, when William Goforth, Esq., was chosen and took the chair.

On motion, the Convention proceeded to the choice of a Secretary pro tempore; whereupon, Mr. William McFarland was chosen and proceeded to the duties of his office.

On motion,

Resolved, That a standing committee of Privileges and Elections, to consist of five members, be chosen by ballot, whose duty it shall be to examine and report upon the credentials of the members returned to serve in the Convention, and to take into consideration all such matters as shall or may be referred to them, touching returns and elections, and to report their proceedings, with their opinion thereupon, to the Convention.

And a committee was appointed of Mr. Worthington, Mr. Darlington, Mr. Smith, Mr. Milligan and Mr. Huntington.

On motion, the Convention proceeded by ballot, to the choice of a door-keeper, to serve during the pleasure of the Convention; and upon examining the ballots, a majority of the votes was found in favor of Adam Betz.

On motion,

Ordered, That a committee of three be appointed to prepare and report rules for the regulation and government of the Convention; and that Mr. Reily, Mr. Milligan and Mr. Worthington, be the said committee.

And then the Convention adjourned until to-morrow morning, ten o'clock.

TUESDAY, November 2, 1802.

Several other members, to wit: from the county of Belmont, Elijah Woods; from the county of Fairfield, Emanuel Carpenter and Henry Abrams; from the county of Jefferson, Bazaleel Wells and Nathan Updegraff; from the county of Hamilton, John W. Browne; and from the county of Washington, Rufus Putnam, Ephraim Cuttler, John McIntire and Benjamin Ives Gilman, appeared, who severally produced certificates of their having been chosen as members to the Convention, and having taken the oath of fidelity to the United States, and also an oath faithfully to discharge the duties of their office, took their seats.

Mr. Worthington from the committee of Privileges and Elections, to whom was referred the several returns of election of members to serve in the Convention, made a report, which he delivered in at the Secretary's table, where the same was read in the words following, to wit:

The committee of Privileges and Elections, to whom was referred the certificates of the elections of the following members, viz:

From the County of Adams—Joseph Darlington, Thomas Kirker and Israel Donalson, Esquires.

From the County of Belmont—James Caldwell, Esquire.

From the County of Clermont—Philip Gatch and James Sargent, Esquires.

From the County of Hamilton—Francis Dunlavy, John Paul, Jeremiah Morrow, John Wilson, Charles Willing Byrd, William Goforth, John Smith and John Reily, Esquires.

From the County of Jefferson—Rudolph Bair, John Milligan and George Humphrey, Esquires.

From the County of Ross—Edward Tiffin, Nathaniel Massie, Thomas Worthington, Michael Baldwin and James Grubb, Esquires.

From the County of Trumbull—Samuel Huntington, Esquire.

Having carefully examined the same, find them regular and agreeable to a Law of the Territory entitled "An act to ascertain the number of free male inhabitants of the age of twenty-one, in the Territory of the United States north-west of the river Ohio; and to regulate the elections of the Representatives for the same;" and that the members aforesaid, from the certificates to us referred, appear duly elected.

The said report was again read, and on the question, thereupon agreed to by the Convention.

On motion,

Resolved, That the Convention proceed by ballot, to the choice of a President.

The Convention accordingly proceeded to choose their President; and upon examining the ballots, it was found that Edward Tiffin, Esquire, was duly chosen, who accordingly took his seat in the chair, and delivered the following address:

GENTLEMEN: I beg you to be assured that I duly appreciate the honor you have conferred in selecting me to preside over your deliberations, on this important occasion: the duties of the Chair will, I presume, be pleasing and easy, for, from the known characters of the gentlemen who compose this Convention, there can be no doubt but that the utmost propriety and decorum will be observed, without the aid of interference from the Chair. Whatever rules you may adopt for the government of the Convention, shall be strictly observed; and in every decision, which may be required from the Chair, the utmost impartiality shall be evinced.

On motion,

Resolved, That the Convention proceed, by ballot, to the choice of a Secretary; and that the person having a plurality of votes be elected.

The Convention accordingly proceeded to choose their Secretary; and upon examining the ballots, it was found that Thomas Scott, Esquire, was duly chosen, who thereupon took the oath of fidelity to the United States and also an oath faithfully to discharge the duties of his office.

On motion,

Resolved, That the Convention proceed, by ballot, to the choice of an Assistant-Secretary.

The Convention accordingly proceeded to the choice of an Assistant-Secretary; and upon examining the ballots, a majority of the votes of the whole number was found in favor of Mr. William M'Farland, who thereupon took the oath of fidelity to the United States, and also an oath faithfully to discharge the duties of his office.

And then the Convention adjourned until to-morrow morning ten o'clock.

WEDNESDAY, November 3, 1802.

Another member, to wit, from the county of Hamilton, John Kitchel, who appeared, produced a certificate of his having been duly chosen as a member in the Convention; and having taken the oath of fidelity to the United States, and also an oath faithfully to discharge the duties of his office, took his seat.

Mr. Reily, from the Committee appointed to prepare and report rules for the regulation and government of the Convention, made a report, which was received and read; whereupon,

Resolved, That the same be established as the standing rules and orders of the Convention.

STANDING RULES AND ORDERS OF THE CONVENTION.

1. The President shall take the chair every day at the hour to which the Convention shall have adjourned on the preceding day; shall immediately call the members to order; and, on the appearance of a quorum, shall cause the Journal of the preceding day to be read.

2. The President shall preserve decorum and order; may speak to points of order in preference to other members, rising from the chair for that purpose; and shall decide questions of order, subject to an appeal to the Convention by any one member.

3. The President, rising from his seat, shall distinctly put the question in this form, viz: "You who are of opinion that (as the case may be) say Aye; contrary opinion say No."

4. If the President doubts, or a division be called for, the members shall divide—those in the affirmative first rising in their seats, and afterwards those in the negative. If a count be required by any member, the President shall name two members, one from each side, to tell the numbers, beginning with the affirmative, report of the same being made to the President, he, rising from his seat, shall state the decision.

5. Any member may call for a statement of the question, which the President may give sitting.

6. The President, with five members, shall be a sufficient number to adjourn; seven to call a house and send for absent members, and make an order for their censure or discharge; and a majority of the whole number, consisting of two-thirds of the whole number elected, be a quorum to proceed to business.

7. When a member is about to speak in debate or deliver any matter to the Convention, he shall rise from his seat and respectfully address himself to Mr. President.

8. If any member, in speaking or otherwise, transgress the rules, the President shall, or any member may, call to order; in which case the member so called to order shall immediately sit down, unless permitted to explain; and the Convention shall if appealed to, decide on the case, but without debate. If the decision be in favor of the member called to order he shall be at liberty to proceed; if otherwise, and the case require it, he shall be liable to the censure of the Convention.

9. When two or more happen to rise at the same time, the President shall name the person who is first to speak.

10. No member shall speak more than twice to the same question, without leave of the Convention.

11. Whilst the President is putting a question or addressing the Convention, none shall walk out of or across the room; nor, when a member is speaking, entertain private discourse or pass between him and the chair.

12. No member shall vote on any question or in any case where he was not present when the question was put.

13. Upon calls of the Convention for taking the yeas and nays on any question, the names of the members shall be called alphabetically; and each member shall answer from his seat.

14. Any member shall have a right to call for the yeas and nays, provided he shall request it before the question be put.

15. When a motion is made and seconded, it shall be stated by the President, or, being in writing, shall be read aloud by the Secretary ; and every motion shall be reduced to writing, if the President or any member require it.

16. Any member may call for a division of the question, where the sense will admit of it.

17. Each member shall particularly forbear personal reflection ; nor shall any member name another in argument or debate.

18. After a motion is stated by the President or read by the Secretary, it shall be deemed to be in possession of the Convention, but may be withdrawn at any time before a decision or amendment.

19. When a question is under debate, no motion shall be received unless it be the previous question, or for amending or committing the original motion or subject in debate.

20. The previous question shall be in this form, "Shall the main question be now put ?" It shall only be admitted when demanded by three members ; and, until it is decided, shall preclude all amendment and further debate on the original motion.

21. In taking the sense of the Convention, a majority of the votes of the members present shall govern.

22. If any member fails in attending to his duty, such officer as may be appointed for that purpose, by order of the Convention, shall take him into custody, for which the officer shall receive one dollar per day for the time he is traveling to and from the place of residence of the member, and until he is admitted to his seat, to be paid by the delinquent.

23. No resolution, section, or article in the Constitution, shall be finally concluded and agreed upon, until the same shall have received three several readings.

24. The Convention shall resolve itself into a Committee of the Whole, when deemed necessary ; and, when in Committee of the Whole, shall be governed by the foregoing rules, except, that in Committee of the Whole, any member shall speak as often as he may think proper.

25. The president shall appoint committees, liable to addition or amendment, on the motion of any member, unless otherwise directed by the Convention.

26. A motion to adjourn shall always be in order, and be decided without debate.

A motion was made and seconded, that Arthur St. Clair, Sen., Esq., be permitted to address the Convention on those points which he deems of importance.

And on the question thereupon it was resolved in the affirmative—yeas, 19 ; nays, 14.

Those who voted in the affirmative are—

Messrs. Bair, Browne, Caldwell, Cutler, Dunlavy, Gilman, Humphrey, Huntington, M'Intire, Massie, Morrow, Paul, Putnam, Reily, Sargent, Smith, Updegraff, Wells and Woods.

And thereupon, Arthur St. Clair, Sen., Esq., was permitted to address the Convention.

On motion, leave was given to lay before the Convention a resolution on the subject of forming a Constitution and State government; which resolution was received and read the first time.

On motion, the said resolution was read the second time; whereupon,

Resolved, That the Convention will immediately resolve itself in to a Committee of the Whole on the said resolution.

The Convention accordingly resolved itself into the said committee, Mr. Goforth in the chair; and after some time spent therein, Mr. President resumed the chair, and Mr. Goforth reported that the committee had, according to order, had the said resolution under consideration and made no amendment thereto.

The said resolution was then amended at the Secretary's table, and read the third time; and on the question that the Convention do agree to the same, in the words following:

Whereas, Congress did, by the law, entitled "An act to enable the people of the eastern division of the Territory north-west of the river Ohio, to form a Constitution and State government, and for the admission of said State into the Union, on an equal footing with the original States, and for other purposes," [provide] that the members of the Convention thus duly elected, agreeably to the act aforesaid, when met, shall first determine, by a majority of the whole number elected, whether it be or be not expedient, at this time, to form a Constitution and a State government for the people within the said Territory; therefore,

Resolved, That it is the opinion of this Convention, that it is expedient, at this time, to form a Constitution and State government.

It was resolved in the affirmative—yeas, 32; nays, 1.

The yeas and nays being demanded, those who voted in the affirmative are—

THURSDAY, November 25, 1802.

The Convention proceeded to consider the amendments reported on Tuesday last from the committee of the whole Convention to the third article of the Constitution on the Judiciary; whereupon,

Ordered, That the said article be recommitted to a committee of the whole Convention immediately.

The Convention accordingly resolved itself into the said committee, Mr. Byrd in the chair; and after some time spent therein Mr. President resumed the chair, and Mr. Byrd reported that the committee had, according to order, had the said article under consideration, and made several amendments thereto, which he delivered in at the Secretary's table.

Ordered, That the said article, with the amendments, do lie on the table.

On motion, the first article of the Constitution was taken up and read the third time, in order for its final passage.

A motion was made to strike out, in the nineteenth section, the words following: "The Legislature of this State shall not allow the following officers of government greater annual salaries than as follows, until the year one thousand eight hundred and eight, to wit: The Governor not more than one thousand dollars; the Judges of the Supreme Court not more than one thousand dollars each; the Presidents of the Courts of Common Pleas not more than eight hundred dollars each; the Secretary of State not more than five hundred dollars; the Auditor of Public Accounts not more than seven hundred and fifty dollars; the Treasurer not more than four hundred and fifty dollars."

And on the question thereupon it passed in the negative—yeas 11, nays 21.

The yeas and nays being demanded, those who voted in the affirmative are—

Messrs. Baldwin, Byrd, Cutler, Gilman, Goforth, M'Intire, Massie, Putnam, Smith, Wells, and Woods.

Those who voted in the negative are—

Messrs. Abbot, Bair, Browne, Caldwell, Darlinton, Donalson, Dunlavy, Gatch, Grubb, Humphrey, Huntington, Kirker, Kitchel, Milligan, Morrow, Paul, Reily, Sargent, Updegraff, Wilson, and Worthington.

The said article was further amended at the Secretary's table; and on the question that the Convention do receive said article as amended, it was resolved in the affirmative.

On motion, the second article of the Constitution, on the supreme Executive authority, was taken up and read the third time in order for its final passage; and on the question that the Convention do receive the said article, it was resolved in the affirmative.

And then the Convention adjourned until to-morrow morning, ten o'clock.

FRIDAY, November 26, 1802.

On motion,

Ordered, That a committee of five be appointed to prepare an address to the President of the United States and both branches of the Federal Legislature, expressive of the high sense this Convention entertaint of the cheerful and philanthropic manner in which they made provision for the admission of this State into the Union, and expressive of their approbation of the present administration of the General Government.

And a committee was appointed of Mr. Goforth, Mr. Byrd, Mr. Massie, Mr. Huntington, and Mr. Baldwin.

On motion, the fourth article of the Constitution, designating the qualifications of electors, was taken up and read the third time in order for its final passage.

A motion was made to amend said article by striking out after the word "election," in the seventh line of the first section, the words following: "Provided, that all male negroes and mulattoes now residing in this Territory shall, at the age of twenty-one years, be entitled to the right of suffrage, if they shall within one year make a record of their citizenship with the Clerk of the county in which they may reside; and provided also, that they have paid or are charged with a State or county tax."

And on the question thereupon it was resolved in the affirmative—yeas 17, nays 17.

The Convention being equally divided, Mr. President declared himself with the yeas.

The yeas and nays being demanded, were as follows:

YEAS—Messrs. Abrams, Baldwin, Bair, Caldwell, Carpenter, Darlinton, Grubb, Humphrey, Huntington, Kirker, M'Intire, Massie, Milligan, Smith, Woods, and Worthington.

NAYS—Messrs. Abbot, Browne, Byrd, Cutler, Dunlavy, Gatch, Gilman, Goforth, Kitchel, Morrow, Paul, Putnam, Reily, Sargent, Updegraff, Wells, and Wilson.

Another motion was then made further to amend the said article by striking out the fifth section, which follows in these words, to wit:

SEC. 5. Nothing contained in this article shall be so construed as to prevent white male persons above the age of twenty-one years, who are compelled to labor on the roads of their respective townships or counties, and who have resided one year in the State, from having the right of an elector."

And on the question thereupon it passed in the negative—yeas 13, nays 21.

The yeas and nays being demanded, those who voted in the affirmative are—

The said article was further amended at the Secretary's table.

And on the question that the Convention do receive the said article, as amended, it was resolved in the affirmative.

On motion, the schedule to the Constitution was taken up and read the third time, in order for its final passage.

The said schedule was further amended at the Secretary's table.

And on the question that the Convention do receive the said schedule, as amended, it was resolved in the affirmative.

And then the Convention adjourned till to-morrow morning ten o'clock.

SATURDAY, November 27, 1802.

Mr. Goforth, from the committee appointed to prepare an address to the President of the United States and both branches of the Federal Legislature, expressive of the high sense the Convention entertain of the cheerful and philanthropic manner in which they made provision for the admission of this State into the Union, and expressive of their approbation of the present administration of the General Government, made a report, which was received and read the first time.

On motion, the said report was read the second time, and on the question thereupon agreed to by the Convention, in the words following:

To the President and both Houses of Congress of the United States:

The Convention of the State of Ohio, duly appreciating the importance of a free and independent State government, and impressed with sentiments of gratitude to the Congress of the United States for the prompt and decisive measures taken at their last session to enable the people of the North-western Territory to immerse from their colonial government and to assume a rank among the sister states, beg leave to take the earliest opportunity of announcing to you this important event. On this occasion, the Convention can not help expressing their unequivocal approbation of the measures pursued by the present Administration of the General Government and both Houses of Congress, in diminishing the public burdens, cultivating peace with all nations, and promoting the happiness and prosperity of our country.

Resolved, That the President of this Convention do inclose to the President of the United States, to the President of the Senate, and to the Speaker of the House of Representatives of the United States, the foregoing address.

On motion, the third article of the Constitution was taken up and read the third time, in order for its final passage.

A motion was made further to amend the said article, at the Secretary's table, by striking out, after the word "himself," in the eighth line of the ninth section, the words following: "They shall be removable for breach of good behavior, at any time, by the judges of the respective courts."

The said article was further amended at the Secretary's table.

And on the question that the Convention do receive the said article, as amended, it was resolved in the affirmative.

On motion,

Ordered, That the Constitution now framed be engrossed.

On motion, the report of the committee of the whole Convention, on Thursday last, on their disagreement to the report of the select committee to whom were referred the propositions made by Congress to the Convention, for their acceptance or rejection, was taken up and read; whereupon,

Ordered, That the said report be recommitted to Mr. Putnam, Mr. Smith, Mr. Huntington, Mr. Massie, and Mr. Wells, who are to report their opinion thereupon.

Mr. Putnam, from the committee to whom were recommitted the propositions made by Congress to the Convention, for their acceptance or rejection, made a report, which was received and read the first time; whereupon,

Ordered, That the said report be committed to a committee of the whole Convention on Monday next.

And then the Convention adjourned until Monday morning nine o'clock.

MONDAY, November 29, 1862.

The Convention, according to the order of the day, resolved itself into a committee of the whole Convention, on the report of the select committee to whom were recommitted the propositions made by Congress to the Convention, for their acceptance or rejection—Mr. Wells in the chair; and after some time spent therein Mr. President resumed the chair, and Mr. Wells reported that the committee of the whole Convention had, according to order, had under their consideration the said report, and made several amendments thereto; which he delivered in at the Secretary's table.

The Convention proceeded to consider the said amendments; and the same being read, some were agreed to and others disagreed to.

The preamble to the said report being under consideration, in the words following:

We, the Representatives of the people of the eastern division of the Territory north-west of the River Ohio, being assembled in Convention, pursuant to an act of Congress, entitled "An act to enable the people of the eastern division of the Territory north-west of the River Ohio to form a Constitution and State government, and for the admission of such State into the Union, on an equal footing with the original States, and for other purposes;" and having had under consideration the propositions offered by said act for our free acceptance or rejection, do resolve to accept the said proposition, provided the following addition to, and modification of, the said propositions shall be agreed to by the Congress of the United States, viz:

A motion was made and seconded to strike out the proviso to the said preamble, in the words following: "Provided the following addition to, and modification of, the said propositions shall be agreed to by the Congress of the United States, viz:"

The previous question was called for by three of the members, to wit: "Shall the main question, to strike out the said proviso, be now put?"

And on the previous question, "Shall the main question be now put?" it was resolved in the negative—yeas 11, nays 22.

The yeas and nays being demanded, those who voted in the negative are—

Messrs. Baldwin, Byrd, Caldwell, Carpenter, Darlington, Donalson, Gatch, Grubb, Kirker, Massie, and Sargent.

Those who voted in the negative are—

Messrs. Abbot, Abrams, Bair, Browne, Cutler, Dunlavy, Gilman, Goforth, Humphrey, Huntington, Kitchel, M'Intire, Milligan, Morrow, Paul, Putnam, Reily, Smith, Updegraff, Wells, Wilson, and Woods.

On motion,

Ordered, That a committee be appointed to prepare and report a resolution for the ascertaining the fees of the officers of the Convention; and that Mr. Reily, Mr. Browne, and Mr. Goforth be the said committee.

On motion,

Ordered, That a committee be appointed to prepare and report a resolution on the subject of distributing the Journals and Constitution in the several counties; and that Mr. Dunlavy, Mr. Paul, and Mr. Bair be the said committee.

Mr. Reily, from the committee appointed to prepare and report a resolution for the ascertaining the fees of the officers of the Convention, made a report, which was received and read the first time, and agreed to by the Convention, in the words following, to wit:

Resolved, That there be allowed to the Secretary of this Convention the sum of three dollars per day; to the Assistant-Secretary the sum of three dollars per day; and to the Door-keeper the sum of one dollar and fifty cents per day, for their services respectively during their attendance on the Convention.

Mr. Dunlavy, from the committee appointed to prepare and report a resolution on the subject of distributing the Journals of the Convention and the Constitution, made a report, which was received and read the first time, and agreed to by the Convention, in the words following:

Resolved, That the following number of copies of the Journal of the Convention and of the Constitution of the State of Ohio be sent by the printer, to be put in the possession of the members of this Convention, to be distributed by them, for the information of the people in their respective counties, to wit:

To the county of Adams, sixty copies of the Journal and eighty-eight copies of the Constitution, to be sent to Israel Donalson. To the county of Belmont, forty copies of the Journal and sixty copies of the Constitution, to be sent to James Caldwell, at St. Clairsville. To the county of Clermont, forty copies of the Journal and sixty copies of the Constitution, to be sent to Roger Warren. To the county of Fairfield, forty copies of the Journal and sixty copies of the Constitution, to be sent to Emanuel Carpenter. To the county of Hamilton, two hundred copies of the Journal and two hundred and eighty copies of the Constitution, to be sent to John Reily. To the county of Jefferson, one hundred copies of the Journal and one hundred and forty copies of the Constitution, to be sent to John Ward. To the county of Ross, one hundred copies of the Journal and one hundred and forty copies of the Constitution, to be sent to Edward Tiffin. To the county of Trumbull, forty copies of the Journal and sixty copies of the Constitution, to be sent to Calvin Pease. To the county of Washington, eighty copies of the Journal and one hundred and twelve copies of the Constitution, to be sent to Benjamin Ives Gilman.

On motion,

Resolved, That the Secretary of the Convention be authorized to deliver the engrossed Constitution to the President, to be by him kept until a Secretary of State shall be elected and duly qualified; after which it shall be the duty of the President to deliver the said Constitution to the Secretary of State, to be by him filed in his office.

On motion,

Resolved, That the Constitution be ratified by the Convention.

And thereupon the following members ratified and subscribed their names to the Constitution, to wit:

EDWARD TIFFIN,

President and Representative from the county of Ross.

From Adams county—Joseph Darlington, Israel Donalson, and Thomas Kirker.

From Belmont county—James Caldwell and Elijah Woods.

NOTE.—Special. Where, in any case, the valuation, when multiplied by the rate of taxation specified, does not agree with the total amount of tax given, the difference is owing to the item of "other special taxes" being added into the total amount. The item itself, from its nature, can not have a rate given.—AUDITOR.

IRON TRADE AND MANUFACTURE.

The following valuable article is taken from the report of the Cincinnati Chamber of Commerce, containing more information on the manufacture and trade in iron than can be derived from the reports made to this office by the assessors of the State :

The past year in the iron business, in some respects, has not been unlike its immediate predecessor. As then, the hopes entertained that prices had receded as much as they were destined to proved to rest on a slender foundation. The year opened with a fair demand at the reduced prices, and yet a demand that looked only to the supply of immediate wants. No. 1 hot-blast charcoal iron was quoted at $27 and $28 per ton, compared with $33 and $34 at the corresponding period of the preceding year. Before the middle of September the price declined to $26 and $27. November brought a shrinkage of $1 per ton, and February took off an additional dollar, the quotation the middle of that month having been $24 and $25. Prices for this grade of iron remained unchanged thence to the close of the year. It will thus be seen that there was a gradual shrinkage during the first half of the year, and a comparatively unchanged market during the remainder of the period embraced in this report. The average quotation for the year of No. 1 hot-blast charcoal iron was $25.16, compared with $29.28 3-10 in 1874-75, $39.21 in 1873-74, $55.33 in 1872-73, and $46.74 in 1871-72. The average quotation for No. 1 hot-blast stone-coal iron for the year 1875-76 was $24.16 per ton. The great change which has been effected in the value of iron may be seen by a comparison with the figures in November, 1872, when No. 1 hot-blast charcoal iron was ruling at $58 and $59. The decline from the highest point attained has thus been $34 per ton. Iron, in value, is equal only to a fraction over 41 per cent. of the value in 1872. This grade lost in value in 1872-73 $11 per ton; in 1873-74 $14; in 1874-75 $6, and in 1875-76 $3. It will thus be seen that the smallest loss has been sustained during the past year; and when it is understood that for over six months there substantially has been no change, and that there are evidences of returning confidence, it may reasonably warrant the expectations of producers that at last the lowest depths have been reached.

The year has not only brought diminished prices, but reduced production. Probably among all the important iron-producing States, Ohio has come the most nearly holding her own.

The following figures from the report of the American Iron and Steel Association show the production and change for the years 1874 and 1875, in the States which are mainly tributary to Cincinnati, in the pig-iron business :

| STATES. | 1874. Net tons. | 1875. Net tons. | Increase. | Decrease. |
|------------------------------|--------------------|--------------------|-----------|-----------|
| Alabama | 32,863 | 25,108 | | 7,755 |
| Georgia | 9,786 | 16,508 | 6,722 | |
| Indiana | 13,732 | 22,081 | 8,349 | |
| Kentucky | 61,227 | 48,339 | | 12,888 |
| Michigan | 136,662 | 114,805 | | 21,857 |
| Missouri | 75,817 | 59,717 | | 16,100 |
| Ohio | 425,001 | 415,893 | | 9,108 |
| Tennessee | 48,770 | 28,311 | | 20,459 |
| West Virginia | 30,134 | 25,277 | | 4,857 |
| Totals | 833,992 | 756,039 | | |
| Aggregate net decrease | 77,953 | | | |

It will thus be seen that the State of Ohio, with the exception of Alabama, has shown less loss in production, during the year, than any other of the larger producing States intimately associated with us in this great department of industry, and this notwithstanding the extent of the business in the State. There has practically been no diminution. What has been lost by older furnaces going out has been made up, or nearly so, by new furnaces, which, by eligibility of location, and perfection of machinery and appliances, have given new importance to this branch of manufactures in this State. Indeed, the importance of the iron interest of the State of Ohio is one that must impress itself more and more upon the active business mind of the world. Ohio produces as good charcoal iron as any State in the country. But the development lies largely in another direction. The inquiries and experiments of scientific men as to the more complete adaptability of stone coal, and coke made therefrom, to the smelting of iron, have been of such a character as to warrant the expectation of the most important results in production. In all fields it may be said that the depression and losses of the past few years have encouraged investigation as to improved methods and economical management to an extent never before attained. The whole tendency of the past year has been towards a more healthy condition, and that of a permanent character. The pinch during the past four years has resulted in a great change in the nature of business. Thought has been stimulated to an extent which years of prosperity would not have secured, and it has resulted in improved machinery, a more systematic economy in the conduct of business, and an increased intelligence on the part of producers, which must be of permanent advantage to every department of iron manufactures, and to consumers, both small and great.

A feature of the year, notwithstanding the extremely low prices, has been the almost total absence of speculative tendencies. Consumers of all classes have shown no disposition to anticipate future wants. Manufacturers and dealers in iron have been content with meeting daily wants, and still there has been a visible improvement in the market. The growing confidence in the return of better times has reached the iron interests as well as others, and though prices are very low, there is an increasing conviction that we have seen the worst of depression. The improvement in demand has mainly come from rolling mills and car builders, though the growing confidence in an improved state of things in the future is confined to no one department of the business.

The aggregate sales from first hands of pig iron, during the past year in this city, according to the reports made to the Superintendent, have been 137,646 tons, in comparison with 117,225 tons in the preceding year. These embrace sales of iron shipped directly from the furnaces to the place of consumption, as well as those of iron actually received at Cincinnati. It will thus be seen there has been an actual increase in the business of 20,421 tons. Such a showing, in view of the depression which has marked the history of the year, is one of much encouragement, and promises that steady progress of this city towards a chief position among the iron centers of the country, of which her position, and resources, and vantage ground, have, of late years, given such sure indications.

The value of the business in pig iron, estimating the average price at $25.16 per ton, would be $3,463,173, in comparison with $3,432,248 in the preceding year, and $3,835,326 in 1873-74. The comparison for eight years would be about as follows:

|---------------|-------------|
| 1868-69 | $1,767,000 |
| 1869-70 | 2,469,000 |
| 1870-71 | 2,667,000 |
| 1871-72 | 6,500,000 |
| 1872-73 | 7,082,930 |
| 1873-74 | 3,835,326 |
| 1874-75 | 3,432,348 |
| 1875-76 | 3,463,173 |

In manufactured iron the unprofitable features of the year have scarcely been less than a duplication of the preceding year. Some there were, one year ago, who were persuaded that the downward progress in prices had been permanently arrested, but on what a slender foundation such hopes were based the decline of the past year bears serious testimony. Production has exceeded the wants of the people, and the whole year has again been one in which dealers and consumers were able largely to dictate prices and terms. It is estimated that the production of the rolling mills in this vicinity has been 25 per cent. less than the preceding year; but this estimate must be considered in conjunction with the fact that the movements in this city has been larger than during the previous year, the former having been 49,502 tons, in comparison with 39,745 in 1874-75, and the latter 32,640 tons, compared with 26,952 tons. The returns as to prices and bundles are indefinite, and, though an increase is shown in receipts, it does not necessarily show an increase in business. It is an agreeable fact that the same tendency to reduce the cost of production to the minimum has been exhibited that has manifested itself in pig iron. The tendency of the market has been downward throughout the year. In the spring there were evidences of reaction, but it was but temporary. All classes of iron seems to have felt the shrinkage process. Bar iron has declined in the year from $5.00 a $10.00 per ton, September closing with bar iron quotable at 2½ cents; card rate, per pound, sheet iron 3 a 4½ cents, and plate 3 a 4½ cents, as to thickness. These prices, it is understood, are subject to a small discount, which will vary according to quantity. At the close of the year there was more confidence in the future. Manufacturers who before had not been able to see light ahead were impressed with the belief that the bottom had really been reached, and that in the general improvement in the business of the country iron manufacturers would enjoy a reasonable participation.

The reports from stove manufacturers and dealers, as to the comparative extent of the business during the past year, are not uniform. The larger number, however, show a business less in volume than during the preceding year. Though the fall season of 1875 opened favorably, the mildness of the winter diminished demand, while, during the succeeding spring and summer, there was more than usual quiet. Margins have been slender, and dealers from the interior have bought carefully. A closer scrutiny as to credits has been exercised, and the smaller dealers have received more than ordinary attention from the manufacturers. New purchasers have been paying with more promptness than formerly, and a larger number are buying for cash than for a number of years. Prices have declined within the year about 5 per cent., though the general decline in stoves from the commencement of the change has been greater than the decline in labor. Taking the whole year, it has not been as favorable to manufacturers as the opening promised, though the business of July and August, in 1876, participating in the improvement in general business, showed signs of a somewhat better condition of business.

The receipts and shipments of nails have been, with the exception of one year, the largest in the history of the city. The former were 417,037 kegs, in comparison with 363,222 kegs in the previous year, and the latter 324,119 kegs, compared with 290,816 in 1874-75. The market, however, was much depressed during the larger part of the year, and prices were very low. The year opened with 10d nails quotable at $3.10 per keg. After the commencement of the commercial year prices steadily gave way, until in February, when the quotation was $2.50, in comparison with $2.90, at the highest point in the year 1872-73. The combination among many leading producers, looking to the adjustment of production and prices, formed in the early part of the calendar year, stiffened the market and resulted in a steady advance in prices until May, when they were quotable at $2.85, at which they remained till the end of the commercial year. The market, throughout July and August, exhibited considerable firmness, and there was an improved demand at the close. The average quotation for 10d nails, for the year, was $2.79 7-10.

The following table shows the quotations for all kinds of iron, at the close of August, for two years, the same being per ton, save where otherwise specified:

^dIron sold here, but shipped directly from the furnaces or places of storage to destination, without coming to Cincinnati, is embraced in these figures.

IRON ORE, PIG IRON, AND MANUFACTURED ARTICLES, COAL, ETC., ETC.

The following tables show the manufacture of articles therein named, as returned by the assessors for the year 1875. The returns show but a very small portion of the product of the State. For the year 1874 only forty counties of the eighty-eight were returned by the assessors, and but thirty-eight for 1875. No returns were made by the auditors for the largest manufacturing counties—Hamilton, Franklin, Montgomery, Butler, and Muskingum—and only a very meager return from Cuyahoga. Either the assessors pay no attention to this branch of their duties, or persons engaged in manufacturing neglect or refuse to make returns to the assessors. In my last report it was suggested that, "if it is desired that a proper exhibit of the manufacture of iron in Ohio should be obtained, I venture to suggest the propriety of authorizing the county auditors of each county to appoint a competent person in each of the iron-manufacturing counties to obtain full statistics." The present method of collecting by the assessors has proven a failure.

Efforts were made to obtain information on the subject of iron manufacture last year from the manufacturers. Circulars, asking information, were addressed to the proprietors of eighty-two furnaces, and but thirty-two responded. The request was not repeated this year.

BIRTHS.

The reports of the Probate Judges of all the counties of the State, except Pike, which is estimated at the same as last year, show the following number of births:

| SEX. | 1875. | 1876. |
|---------------------------|--------|--------|
| White males..... | 30,558 | 31,885 |
| " females..... | 28,430 | 29,525 |
| Colored males..... | 540 | 569 |
| " females..... | 540 | 596 |
| Sex or color unknown..... | 455 | 377 |
| Totals..... | 60,523 | 62,952 |
| Increase over 1875..... | | 2,429 |

The above shows 2,429 increase compared with 1875, 3,073 of which is in Cuyahoga county—that county being returned last year at 1,243, which is a very imperfect return.

Hamilton county returns 1,013, with an estimated population of 292,410; and Franklin county returns 1,354, with an estimated population of 85,185. No returns of births were made in Hamilton county for the months of April, June, July, September, December, 1875, and January, 1876. The number of births returned from Hamilton county in 1874 is 5,943—4,930 more than 1876.

The ratio of births to one hundred persons living (based upon the estimated population of the State in 1876) is 19; of persons living to one birth, 52.63; on the population of 1870, 23.

DEATHS REPORTED IN EACH COUNTY OF THE STATE.

The following table shows the deaths reported by the probate judges for the year ending March, 1876, in all the counties, except Fayette and Pike, which are estimated at the number returned last year.

In 1875 there were reported 28,916 deaths; the returns for 1876 show 26,975, being a decrease of 1,941.

The number of deaths reported for the year ending March, 1871, was 25,149—1,826 less than the report of 1876.

The number of deaths to the living, and the living to the dead, are calculated on the population of the State estimated on the vote cast for President, November 7, 1876—the largest vote ever cast in the State—which more nearly approximates correctness than the population given by the census of 1870, which was much under the true population of the ^b No returns for the months of April, June, July, September, December, 1875, and January, 1876. ^c No return—estimate of 1875.

State. The estimated population is made by multiplying the vote of each county by five, which is believed to be nearly correct.

It is manifestly true that the deaths are not fully reported, as required by the statute.

DIVORCES.

The reports of the clerks of the Courts of Common Pleas for all the counties (except the county of Darke) for the year ending June 30, 1876, show 1,125 suits for divorce pending at the beginning of the year, and 1,937 brought within the year. The aggregate of the several reports shows 1,731 decided, and 1,256 continued and pending. The details fail to show the disposition of 45 cases. There were 744 suits brought by the husband, and 1,699 by the wife, showing 619 cases in which the plaintiff or defendant is not designated. The causes for which divorces were granted were as follows :

|--------------------------------------|------------|

METEOROLOGY.

OBSERVATIONS BY OTHO N. SHAW, ESQ., OF COSHOCTON.

Perhaps the appended record will be succinct enough to afford, at a glance, the characteristics of the weather for the past year; yet some portions of the year embrace phenomena that may be well to notice and point out. January and February were far above the average in temperature; the first month averaging for this point 26.8° , and the second 24.7° . See table, and note difference. The Spring months present an average temperature maintaining, but not exceeding, the mean— 49° . The Summer months again exceeded its mean temperature by nearly 3° ; the Autumn, also, ascended the scale nearly 2° beyond its mean, but the mercury rapidly fell in December, bringing its temperature 5° below the mean, leaving the year 1.43° excess of mean temperature.

Probably the destruction of the peach buds, so general, can be traced back to our mild January, when almost certain the buds must have started, which the later frosts, unhappily extending to the middle of May, destroyed. The rain-fall of the Summer of 1875, though not repeated in 1876, was fully abundant, and unusually favorable to the growth of cereals and grasses. The wheat crop the past season, both in quality and quantity, has not been excelled for many years.

In September the abundant rains somewhat retarded the proper maturity of corn, though not enough to materially affect the crop, which has proven more than an average one. Some complaint was made of mold, yet the quality, taking all things into consideration, is quite fair. On the whole, farmers of the Muskingum, Walhonding, and Tuscarawas valleys may congratulate themselves and nature on a highly successful year.
